Making Inferences Graphic Organizer

Title: Daedulus and Icarus

CPQ: What lesson can be learned from Daedulus and Icarus?

P. #	My Answers to the CPQ	Direct (Explicit) or Inference (Implicit)?	Evidence (Text Clues)	Background Knowledge (Connections to What I Know)
pg. 662 p. 1	Not everyone can be trusted.		"But the king's favor veered with the wind, and one day he had his master architect imprisoned in a tower."	We usually think that kings are good, but not very good when they imprison people for no good reason.
pg. 664 p. 2	Wherever there is a will there is a way.	Implicit	"--he thought of a plan for himself and his young son Icarus, who was captive with him."	When people really want something they do as much as they can to obtain it.
pg. 664 p. 4	Not listening to warnings can have bad consequences.	Implicit	""Remember," said the father, "never to fl y very low or very high, for the fogs about the earth would weigh you down, but the blaze of the sun will surely melt your feathers apart if you go too near."For Icarus, these cautions went in at one ear and out by the other."	Bad things happen when we don't listen to our parents.
pg. 664 p. 5	Taking risks can be dangerous.	Implicit	"The heat of the sun had melted the wax from his wings; the feathers were falling, one by one, like snowflakes; and there was none to help."	He didn't listen to his dad and he did whatever he wanted. The feathers came off his wings, and he fell.